

Jericho Settlers Farm

Jericho, VT

Jericho Settlers Farm is a successful diversified livestock and vegetable farm operating on 150 acres in Richmond and Jericho. The farm is powered by six solar trackers. They operate one of Vermont's few year-round CSA programs, through which they offer shares of eggs, grassfed beef and lamb, pasture raised pork and chicken, and certified organic vegetables.

As Jericho Settlers Farm enters their thirteenth year of production they are greatly expanding their “off-season” vegetable production, producing both storage crops and fresh cut green crops for the winter and early spring markets. They have grown winter salad greens in unheated high tunnels for eight years, and with this experience are now constructing two in-ground biofuel heated greenhouses to expand their winter growing capabilities and increase the supply of local food through Vermont’s winter. Their Working Lands Enterprise grant will assist them in completing the biomass furnace installation and construction of the second greenhouse.
