

Tangletown Farm

West Glover, VT

Tangletown Farm will use funds to increase their pasture hen housing and scale up their flock of egg laying hens, which will increase their wholesale and direct markets. They find there are never enough pastured local eggs available and they would like to fill this gap in the local food system and feed more Vermonters. Eggs are an inexpensive protein choice compared to other local or pastured meats.

Total Working Lands Grant—$15,000 for increasing and improving infrastructure for pastured laying hens and egg production
