

Vermont Woodworking School Incubator Space

Cambridge, VT

The Vermont Woodworking School is a small woodworking and furniture-making school in a historic barn turned modern woodworking facility. They offer short classes and workshops, and have thirty benches for students in their long-term education programs. They offer an Immersion Program and host Burlington College's Craftsmanship and Design Degrees and Certificates.

The Vermont Woodworking School will be building an incubator space to serve individuals interested in starting their own woodworking businesses or in the beginning stages of business. The space will include a computer lab with twelve computers, a classroom, a photo studio, a gallery and a prototype/product design space.
