

Walden Heights Nursery

Walden, VT

They are a small family operation here in Walden Heights. The fields contain a myriad of species in nursery beds abutting the orchards, along with chickens and the occasional pig in the background. This is not a large fossil fuel mitigated endeavor (they have yet to purchase a tractor). Beds are prepared by hoes and muscle and stock is hand dug, sometimes with the help of a friend or a 6 year old boy. Their use of organic growing methods and hand tools is sometimes difficult, but always rewarding...and important. They are firmly committed to helping our neighbors and customers grow organic fruit, and to truly enjoy that very act.

Walden Heights
Nursery & Orchard

Specializing in CERTIFIED ORGANIC heritage variety fruit trees, bushes and other cold-hardy plants for your edible landscape.

Walden Heights Nursery is expanding production and distribution of their cider and juices by installing necessary equipment. Funding will go to purchasing a pasteurizer. The most important outcomes of their project are to provide more full time employment of owners, better profitability, as well as additional employment opportunities in their region and marketing value added product that utilizes an otherwise unsaleable product.
