

Wild Carrot Farm

Brattleboro, VT

Wild Carrot Farm is a small, diversified, horse powered farm in Southern Vermont. In their 5th year, they raise over 200 varieties of vegetables, flowers, mushrooms, pigs, chickens, turkeys and draft horses. As a community supported agriculture (CSA) farm they work to involve our customers in the farm experience while offering the freshest, most delicious food possible. As farmers, they believe that nothing is more important than sustaining the long-term health of our earth. By growing food in a diverse environment using organic principles, and selling all of their food within their community, they are working to create a positive impact in our ecosystem.

The funds will be used to combine new sales space with a vegetable washing and storage area and equipment storage. The new space will create a beautiful centerpiece to a well-known farm and will increase the farm's capacity to provide healthy affordable food as well as to ensure financial sustainability.
